Polestar brings Vivaldi web browser to Polestar 2

December 22, 2021

GOTHENBURG, Sweden – 22 December 2021. Polestar, the pure play, premium electric car company, has released the Vivaldi web browser for Polestar 2. Answering one of the top desires from Polestar owners, the inclusion of a full-scale web browser in the car allows users to browse the web as they might on their mobile devices. It is the first browser available for Android Automotive OS.

"It's great that we could answer our owner community's desire for a browser with Vivaldi as a Christmas present," comments Thomas Ingenlath, Polestar CEO. "Now there is a whole new world of web content you can explore in Polestar 2 – even some of your favourite streaming platforms."

Developed for Polestar 2 by the Vivaldi team in Norway, the app brings extensive browser functionality to the 11-inch centre display with Android Automotive OS in the car, and functions similarly to how it would on a mobile device* – with tabbed browsing, streaming ability, online shopping and top security measures. Vivaldi browser is built around flexibility and features a built-in ad blocker, privacy-friendly translation tool, notes function, tracking protection and encrypted sync functionality.

Jon Stephenson von Tetzhcher, CEO at Vivaldi, adds: "We are really proud to introduce our browser to a car for the first time, and specifically with a brand like Polestar. Our technological and sustainability ambitions are well aligned. We value transparency, privacy and responsible innovation – including the fact that we have our servers in Iceland, one of Polestar's newest markets. Like Polestar, we are a challenger brand, and we take a Scandinavian approach to design, that is based on trust and listening to our users."

The Vivaldi browser for Polestar 2 is now available in all European, North American and certain Asia Pacific markets.

Following the recent performance software upgrade released for Polestar 2 in late November, Polestar's technological abilities are now highlighted from an infotainment perspective as well.

It also continues to strengthen Polestar's position ahead of its proposed business combination with Gores Guggenheim, Inc. (Nasdaq: GGPI, GGPW and GGPIU), which is expected to close in the first half of 2022.

- Notes to editors:
- Some restrictions may apply, for example, files cannot be downloaded and the browser can only be used when parked.
 - To ensure safety, streaming content will continue with audio only, if driving commences.
 - Not for China or South Korea.
 - Integrated voice control is being explored for a future release.
 - Private browsing data is not stored by the car.
 - When logged into a Vivaldi account, browsing data may be shared between other devices logged into the same account. This data is not shared with Polestar.

About Polestar

Polestar was established as a new, standalone Swedish premium electric vehicle manufacturer in 2017. Founded by Volvo Cars and Geely Holding, Polestar enjoys specific technological and engineering synergies with Volvo Cars and benefits from significant economies of scale as a result.

Polestar is headquartered in Gothenburg, Sweden, and its vehicles are currently available and on the road in markets across Europe, North America, China and Asia Pacific. By 2023, the company plans to be present in 30 global markets. Polestar cars are currently manufactured in two facilities in China, with additional future manufacturing planned in the USA.

In September 2021, Polestar announced its intention to list as a public company on the Nasdaq in a business combination agreement with Gores Guggenheim, Inc. Full information on this definitive agreement can be found here.

Polestar has produced two electric performance cars. The Polestar 1 was built between 2019 and 2021 as a low-volume electric performance hybrid GT with a carbon fibre body, 609 hp, 1,000 Nm and an electric-only range of 124 km (WLTP) – the longest of any hybrid car in the world.

The Polestar 2 electric performance fastback is the company's first fully electric, high volume car. The Polestar 2 model range includes three variants with a combination of long- and standard range batteries as large as 78 kWh, and dual- and single-motor powertrains with as much as 300 kW / 408 hp and 660 Nm.

In the coming three years, Polestar plans to launch one new electric vehicle per year, starting with Polestar 3 in 2022 – the company's first electric performance SUV. Polestar 4 is expected to follow in 2023, a smaller electric performance SUV coupe.

In 2024, the Polestar 5 electric performance 4-door GT is planned to be launched as the production evolution of Polestar Precept – the manifesto concept car that showcases the brand's future vision in terms of design, technology, and sustainability. As the company seeks to reduce its climate impact with every new model, Polestar aims to produce a truly climate-neutral car by 2030.
